Streamex Corp. and Monetary Metals & Co. Expand Partnership to Unlock Gold Yield in IRAs

Streamex's GLDY token gives eligible IRA investors access to gold yield generated through Monetary Metals' gold leasing platform

WINTER PARK, Fla. and SCOTTSDALE, Az., Nov. 19, 2026 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Monetary Metals® and Streamex Corp. (NASDAQ: STEX) announce an expanded partnership to deliver a yield on gold inside of self-directed Individual Retirement Accounts. GLDY is a yield-bearing, gold-backed tokenized security that provides investors with the opportunity to earn yield paid in gold generated by Monetary Metals gold leases. Now, that yield can be earned within a tax-advantaged retirement account.

Traditional self-directed precious metals IRAs allow investors to hold physical gold in a tax-advantaged account. However, these accounts typically involve recurring custodian fees and vaulting fees for gold. Gold itself held within an IRA traditionally does not generate a yield, forcing investors to hope for higher prices in order to generate a return.

GLDY changes the game for IRA holders. Earlier this week Streamex announced a collaboration with Equity Trust Company to make GLDY available to self-directed IRA investors. Eligible investors who hold GLDY in a self-directed IRA can earn a yield paid in gold, while maintaining exposure to the gold price. When that yield is reinvested, the number of ounces can compound over time, tax-free, subject to the account's applicable rules. Given the long-term nature of retirement accounts, the results of decades of compounded yield on gold can be impressive.

For illustration purposes, a 100-ounce account compounding at 3.5% annually grows to 280.68 ounces in 30 years. The same account which charges 0.50% in annual fees for 30 years declines to 86.04 ounces, resulting in a difference of 194.64 ounces.

Monetary Metals and Streamex first partnered in 2025 and have established a close working relationship to support the GLDY token. Today, Streamex has over 3,000 ounces of gold deployed through the Monetary Metals Gold Yield Marketplace®, and has received over 71 ounces in yield paid in gold, to date. Both Streamex and Monetary Metals see a massive opportunity for growth in self-directed IRAs.

Henry McPhie, Co-Founder and CEO of Streamex Corp., commented on the partnership:

"Self-directed IRA investors who want to own physical gold have been stuck with one option – pay fees to own idle gold and hope the price rises enough to cover your annual costs. By combining our tokenization technology with Monetary Metals' proven gold yield marketplace platform, GLDY gives them a new option: gold that earns more gold."

Keith Weiner, CEO of Monetary Metals, added:

"Monetary Metals has been paying a yield on gold, in gold, for over a decade. We have shown the world that gold is a productive asset. Thanks to GLDY, now retirement investors can take advantage of yield-bearing gold inside a tax-advantaged account and let their ounces compound for decades."

GLDY is offered under Regulation D, Rule 506(c), and is available only to verified accredited investors and institutional investors through the Streamex platform.
